

From Triplets to Twins

Sometimes I think about my sister Avery. Charlotte, Avery, and I were triplets born a few weeks early on May 29, 2015. That day we went from being triplets to twins. Avery was almost a day old when she died. She was very sick, and her lungs were weak. Charlotte and I stayed in the NICU for 94 days! Mom said we were very sick too, but not as sick as Avery. I was the biggest baby, Char was the smallest, and Avery was right in the middle.

This year Char and I will be 9 years old. I think about Avery on our birthday. Who would she look like? Would she look like me or more like Charlotte? I wonder if Avery would like cheerleading and softball like me or piano and drawing like Char? Would she be taller like me or a little shorter like Char? Would she like ELA like me or Math like Char? Would Avery love Young Sheldon like me or Bluey like Char? These are all the things I think about sometimes.

Charlotte and I miss Avery a lot and wish we could've grown up together. I wonder sometimes what she would be like today, but I bet she would've been awesome! I never got to know Avery, but she will always be my sister, and like my mom says, we will always be the little blonde triplets.
