

Hello Volunteer Readers of West Virginia!

West Virginia Public Broadcasting thanks you for volunteering to read during the week of October 5th for our Mountain Readers Become Leaders literacy initiative. This book is suggested for readers PreK-3rd grade.

This year's book is Little Red and Big, Bad Fred written and illustrated by West Virginia native, Ashley Belote

In addition to the book, this envelope contains a variety of optional West Virginia based activities to engage children's learning before, during, and after the reading. These can be left for the children or completed together. Be sure to check out the link below for exclusive interviews with the author and a special video featuring our WVPB staff reading the book!

wvpublic.org/wvpb-education/mountain-readers-program/

Finally, it is so important for us to get feedback about your experience so that we can continue the program and make it better along the way for both the reader and audience. After you have participated in the Mountain Readers program, please scan the QR code with your phone or go to the link given above to complete the post-survey. Also, we'd love for you to include us on your social media posts when sharing your great work!

We look forward to a fun filled week of reading and exploration and hope to work with you again next year!

Sincerely,

The WVPB Education Team
education@wvpublic.org

Post-Survey

Visit wvpublic.org for more details.